Does scanning for 5 products in one category mean that I need support in that category?

Any category with 5 products is certainly worth considering. However, the iTOVi Scan Report does not diagnose you. Your body may want support in that area, it may be open to receiving support in that area, or it may have responded to those particular products for another reason. For best results, scan yourself regularly and look for trends in both products and categories, to guide your personalized wellness plan.
